USTA Play Days in Twin Rivers USD

SACRAMENTO – The United States Tennis Association (USTA) will host free Tennis Play Day events in Twin Rivers Unified School District throughout the month of October. The events will take place during after school programs to introduce young children to tennis and its lifelong benefits.

“A USTA representative has been working closely with our students in the ASES (After School Education and Safety) program,” says Jeremy Combs, a Twin Rivers’ program specialist. “For some of the kids, it will be their first exposure to tennis. What’s great about the USTA program is schools that participate will receive free tennis equipment, making it possible for our students to continue to play and develop a real interest in the sport.”
