

Communications Office
Sept 15, 2010
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Trinette Marquis
Communications Director
916.566.1789

It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas

Intergenerational partners build houses of gingerbread

First grade students in Bobbi Donovan's classroom at Kohler Elementary are bursting with anticipation – their senior buddies are coming for a visit.

Their special connection is with a group of residents at Eskaton Village's assisted living facility in Carmichael. They get together several times during the year, and in between they stay in touch with Skype, using computers that the Eskaton Foundation donated to their classroom.

Who: Intergenerational gingerbread house builders

What: Wonderful holiday photo opportunity

When: Thursday, December 16

Time: 12:15pm

The sign-up sheet at Eskaton Village was filled several weeks in advance. They are looking forward to constructing gingerbread houses with their Kohler kids.

"The beauty is that it is mutually benefiting; learning from each other, enjoying each other's company and breaking down barriers in our society," says Stuart Greenbaum, Vice President of Public Relations for Eskaton.

Kohler Elementary School is located at 4004 Bruce Way in North Highlands and is part of the Twin Rivers Unified School District. (www.twinriversusd.org)

###