New Book Delivery

Cody Barbour was a high school student in 2010 when he first took on the task of providing books to every third grade student at Fairbanks Elementary School. He worked extra hours and saved money to make it possible. He even took the time to write the students' names on the title pages.

Barbour is returning to Fairbanks Elementary on Dec. 18, but this time around he is bringing books for all 400 students. Each student selected the title of the book that Barbour has purchased.
